What is the Challenge Incarceration Program?

The Challenge Incarceration Program was created by the Wisconsin State Legislature through enactment of State Statute 302.45; which originally stated, "The department shall provide participants with strenuous physical exercise, manual labor, personal development counseling, substance abuse treatment and education, military drill and ceremony and counseling in preparation for release on parole or extended supervision.

Per the Division of Adult Institutions policy and procedures #300.00.12 The Division of Adult Institutions Shall develop, administer and establish enrollment suitability for earned release programs. Earned release programs afford Persons in our Care (PIOC) the opportunity to earn a reduction in their term(s) of confinement.

Who We Are

About Us

The St. Croix Correctional Center (SCCC), located in the city of New Richmond, was styled into the Challenge Incarceration Program (CIP) in January 1991. SCCC's current operating capacity is 120 adult male inmates. The center is part of the Wisconsin Correctional Center System, an "institution" comprised of 14 adult, male correctional centers overseen by a single warden whose office is centrally located in Madison.

SCCC's CIP program is committed to the use of evidence-based practices in furtherance of the core principles of effective Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse intervention strategies and in-depth group interaction. Persons in our care (PIOC) also have an opportunity to attend school with individual tutoring as they work towards earning a General Education Diploma (GED). CIP is designed to allow a participant to successfully complete all program components in a minimum of 140 days. The program is voluntary; however, all program elements are mandatory. Program components are structured around personal orientation and rehabilitative programming.

The program includes rigorous physical activity, manual work assignments; regimentation and discipline; and instruction on military bearing.

Programming offered at CIP:

- Cognitive Behavioral Interventions for Substance Abuse
- Thinking for a Change (T4C)
- Anger Management
- Epictetus (Breaking free of Criminal Thinking)
- Adult Basic Education (GED)

Earn Opportunities:

- Work in the community for work release
- Attend off grounds support group meetings
- Speaking to youth in the community

Community Enhancement

The SCCC project crew assists local government agencies and non-profit organizations on a variety of work projects, incorporating a positive work experience, building new skills, and giving back to the community. Community service opportunities are also offered with staff or agency supervision.
